LOUISVILLE, Sept. 17.—W. C. Owens' majority over Breckenridge is now set down at 415 by the Courier-Journal this being his {majority of the delegates. The vote was about as follows so far as the returns already received indicate. Owens, 8,097; Breckenridge, 7,687; Settle, 3,429. The friends of Col. Breckenridge are still confident, and talk of contesting the result, even if the figures are not changed by later returns.

CALLS IT BLACKMAIL.

Senator Stewart Makes a Strong Talk In His Own Behalf.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Senator Stewart of Nevada, is still here and he is indignant. One cannot talk with him five minutes without being impressed with the sincerity of his declarations that he has been made the victim of blackmail and conspiracy by the woman Glasscock and her husband. He said to-day:

"I do not see why the respectable press should be willing to give a audience to that woman and permit her to tell her to tell her outrageous story. Newspapers in this city even which pretend to be fair, have allowed her to tell her ridiculous story, and to claim that she was drugged. It is unpleasant for me, but I am bound to see through it now in the interests of society. It is incredible to me that any one should for a moment think it possible for me to take up with that woman. She is not attractive. On the contrary she is far from it, and the public will be much surprised when the evidence is presented in court, as it soon will be. I know what nature of woman she is. As near as I can make out she and her husband have been engaged in this business for a number of years. It was commenced in the south.

CHECK IS NOT CASHED.

Quick-Witted Paying Teller Defeats Plans of a Forger.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 17.—The police are looking for a forger who last Thursday, through the agency of a messenger-boy tried to have a che-

The lad approached Sam Beaver, paying-teller, presented check for $3,500 drawn by George Beaver in favor of A. E. Ball, attorney. Paying Teller Beaver is brother of George Beaver and naturally is very familiar with his signature. It seemed all right. He thought for a month and concluded it was wise to turn over such an amount to the boy, so he told him to tell Mr. Ball to come and get it and Beaver kept the check. After a time the boy came back and said he had seen Mr. Ball but he was not the man who gave him the check. A search was immediately made for the forger, but could not be found.

BAD BLAZE AT SCRANTON.

Two Blocks in the Business Center Destroyed Causing a Loss of $300,000.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 17.—One of the hottest fires this city has ever known started in the business section at 5 o'clock Saturday and was not got under control until 10 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $300,000. The fire completely destroyed the Matthews & Morton & Cross & Foster blocks. The property of a number of firms was damaged. Among them were: E. J. Lacher's millinery store, the Famous shoe store, L. F. Crane, wholesaler of furs, and J. D. Williams, confectionery.

HEIMSTREET RUNS FOR SECRETARY

JANESVILLE MAN MAY SUCCEED JOHN M. TRUE.

State Fair Directors Say That They Like the Record That Has Been Made By the Wide-Awake Manager of the Rock County Pumpkin Show.

E. B. Heimstreet is one of the candidates for the secretaryship of the State Agricultural society to succeed John M. True. H. C. Adams is thought to have the inside track but Mr. Heimstreet is very well spoken of by the Sentinel which says that he is fully competent for the position as he has been secretary for the Rock county fair for years beside being secretary of the State Board of Pharmacy and the Pharmaceutical Association. Had he entered the contest earlier, Mr. Heimstreet's chances would have been first-class, the Sentinel continues.

Just who will succeed Treasurer Cyrus Miner the Sentinel could not figure out but said there were several candidates. The Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph prints a half-tone portrait of Secretary Heimstreet and says:

"Mr. Heimstreet has been secretary of the Rock County Agricultural society for several years and to his admirable efforts is largely due the advances made by the society in the way of successful fairs. It was largely through Mr. Heimstreet's efforts that the Wisconsin Fair Association was organized this spring, the first annual report of which has just been issued. Mr. Heimstreet was elected president of the new association, which aims to bring the officers of the various county associations and the state fair together once or twice a year for consideration of subjects affecting the annual fairs. Mr. Heimstreet studied medicine at the Albany Medical College and since 1893 has been in the drug business in Janesville, and for eleven years has been secretary of the State Board of Pharmacy. He has, however, always been interested in agricultural affairs, and hence his connections with fair associations for the past sixteen years, during all of which time he has been Treasurer Miner's strong right hand man at the state fair in the handling of the moneys and banking.

Special Assessment Tax Notice.

To whom it may concern:—The special tax rolls for the paving of South River street, between Milwaukee and Pleasant street, and south Main street between Milwaukee and South First street, and the warrant for the collection of the same, are now in my hands for collection. All persons interested are requested to make payment of the same at the office of the city treasurers, or the same will be collected at the cost and expense of the persons liable for the payment of said special tax.

Dated this 11th day of September 1894. JAMES A. FATHERS, City Treasurer.

Want Another Clothing Store Here. Our fall trade is far beyond our most sanguine expectations. We realize that we have no competition and must therefore bring all the trade to Janesville that comes here in our line. If there was another clothing store in the city equal to ours, we would be glad of it, as then we would have some help. T. J. ZIEGLER.

Black as Ink. Are the prejudices which some people cherish against what is good for them. They reason, as our old friend Artemus Ward says, thusly, "So-and-so has been taking medicine for a long time and isn't any better." They only know of individual cases. Many could be cited, to their astonishment, in which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has brought about a complete change in the physical condition of persons suffering from general ill health. This stomachic, besides having the decided recommendation of the medical profession, is voiced by the general public as the possessor of qualities as an invigorant and a restorative of health not found anywhere else. In bodily trouble caused by the liver, stomach and bowels, in instances where rheumatic tendencies are experienced, and when the kidneys are weak, it is the true resort.

M'KINNEY PLANNED THE RACES.

Speed Department of the State Fair Is Well Planned.

H. D. McKinney has charge of the races at the state fair this year and the Sentinel says that the program for the five days is above criticism. Each day's card has been so nicely planned that no one day can very well be said to excel the other. Mr. McKinney has been laboring earnestly for the success of the speed department, of which he has entire charge, and the large number of entries and excellent qualifications of the probable starters in each class shows that he has been very successful.

There are four good events in tomorrow's card. The second race, the three-minute class trotters, has among its starters, H. D. McKinney's fast little Coupon, the champion two-year-old of Wisconsin, with a record of 2:27. If the colt is defeated it will occasion surprise, even though the great Iowa two-year-old, Binabick, owned by A. E. Kimberley of West Liberty, Ia., is pitted against him. The last two races in which Coupon and Binabick met were hotly contested but the Wisconsin colt won both events.

SMALL BOY WAS A GOOD HARPIST

An Eight Year Old Boy Was an Accomplished Musician.

An Italian orchestra, consisting of a villainous-looking man and two eight year-old boys struck town Saturday. One of the little lads played the second violin and the smaller one the harp. The man was not a Paganini by a good deal, but the boy could play the harp like an angel. His arms were scarcely long enough to reach the strings, but he didn't miss a note, and quite an audience would gather when they played to see the little fellow "pick".

LADS SAILED AWAY IN A BIRCH CANOE

O. L. ROSENCRANS OF OCONOMOWOC WANTS HIS BOY.

He With Two Other Lads, Two Winchester and a Basket of Food Are Missing From Home—With the Idea of Going to New Orleans By Water.

O. L. Rosencrans, the Milwaukee jeweler who wanted to be secretary of state, was in Janesville today.

There isn't anything peculiar about that, that is, not on the surface.

The last time he was here it was in the interest of his canvass for the republican nomination, which same went to another fellow—but this time it is something else he wants.

It's his son.

Perhaps you saw a good natured looking man with a dark mustache and a long tailed cutaway coat, gazing up the river from the Fourth avenue bridge or skirting the banks of the muddy Rock with great "eagleness" of eye.

'Twas he if you did.

It came about this way.

Mr. Rosencrans, who is the chief proprietor of the jewelry store of the O. L. Rosencrans & Thatcher Company of Milwaukee, and he lives at Oconomowoc. He has a boy. The boy is about seventeen years old and he has a Winchester rifle.

Started Out On a Voyage.

So has Samuel Beck while Fred Radcliffe has a birch bark canoe.

That's the combination that is expected to come into sight via Rock river today reinforced by thirty dollars and a basket of provisions.

The boys started from Oconomowoc expecting to go down the Bark river to the Rock, and down the Rock to the Mississippi and down the latter stream to New Orleans. The route brings them through Janesville and that is why Mr. Rosencrans came here today.

They started away without telling their parents when they were going or how long they would be gone and Mr. Rosencrans would like to see them long enough to find out when and where they would be when their money ran out so he could send them a draft in case they needed it.

The people of Oconomowoc expect to see them come straggling home within a short time like a diminutive Cockey army, but Mr. Rosencrans would rather they would return the way Cockey himself did on the cushion of a Pullman. What time they will get here is not definitely known and the time of the leaving is equally uncertain.

BELOIT FEARS A SERIOUS LOSS.

Practical Men of the Berlin Machine Co. Talk of Moving.

Beloit is grief-stricken. A large portion of the Berlin Machine Works may be moved. The practical men of the Berlin works are about to form a similar concern of their own. They visited Green Bay and were very highly recommended by prominent officials of the Chicago & Northwestern road at Chicago and made an excellent impression some weeks ago when they proposed to the Business men's association to build them a plant. Some Green Bay men were sent to Beloit to investigate the standing of the men, and as a result the plant will probably be established. They do not want any cash bonus, but only a site and buildings. The association has secured an option on some land and by next Wednesday the matter will be decided. Should they remove it will be a serious blow to Beloit as the Berlin works now employ two hundred and fifty men and those who expect to go to Green Bay are the brain and sinew of the concern.

MANY CASES FOR JUDGE SALE

Important Matters Before the Probate Court—Special September Session.

Judge Sale's special September term opens tomorrow. The Hudson estate and several other important matters will be presented, the calendar being as follows:

Hearing proof of will—Charles W. Hodson, James Plunkett, Harriet W. Wheeler, Phoebe Cary, Charles H. Legeman, James Sherwood.

Hearing petition for administration—Avery D. Jackson, August Benwitz, John Flaherty, Patrick Hageny, Joseph V. Cousin, Sarah E. McIntyre, Faith Thompson.

Hearing claims—David Smith, Christian L. Wulff, Merriett Bostwick, Mollie Butterfield, George T. Mackey.

Hearing accounts—Chas. N. Fairbanks, Harvey Prentice, E. Shopbell, L. G. Springen, James Croak, Clara M. Parker, Corliss M. Luce, William C. Butts, Esther R. Reese.

DOOLITTLE DECLINES TO RUN.

Is Not Furnishing Meat For a Sacrifice This Fall, He Says.

J. R. Doolittle refuses to serve as a ten-pin in the congressional bowling match in the First district. He Saturday declined the nomination tendered him by the democratic convention.

"Professional business" was the excuse used to thrust aside the certain empty honor of opposing H. A. Cooper the republican nominee.

In accordance with the decree of the democratic delegates, who evidently realized that Mr. Doolittle had too thorough a knowledge of the hopelessness of the democratic cause in this district to consent to run. Andrew Kull of Walworth county will pose in the role of the offering at the democratic altar.

MORGANS LOST THE THIRD GAME.

Athletics Won By a Score of 14 to 5—Good Base Stealing.

The Morgans of Milwaukee, came here for the second time with the intention of taking another game from the Athletics, but this time they were not so lucky. Somers, who held the locals down to three hits last Sunday, pitched a very wild game yesterday. The visitors only had seven players and Lutz and Cal Broughton made up the team. Janesville scored four runs in the first. Three of them crossed the plate before the ball was hit. Wilbur, Birmingham and Morrissey were hit by the pitched balls; Dixon got a base on balls and this with Sullivan's out and a passed ball, tallied four runs; one more counted in the third on Birmingham's two-bagger, his steal of third and Morrissey's single.

The visitors tallied in the third when Birmingham failed to stop Burns' ground. Burns stole second, Wolf was hit by pitched ball, Dixon made a wild throw to catch Wolf at third and Klopff singled bringing in the third man.

The Janesvilles tallied three times in the fifth and the ball was never hit outside the diamond and seven men went to bat in this inning. After Somers had done some very erratic pitching Captain Klopff took him out and Burns, the right fielder, came in and pitched the remainder of the game in good style. Broughton got tired behind the bat and changed hands with Brooks at first. Carr's single and Somers' long high fly to Center, that Minehan misjudged tallied the visitors one run in the fifth. In the sixth inning Sullivan made one of the finest one-handed catches ever made on the home grounds, from Broughton's bat. In the ninth, Henkies' single and Wolf's three bagger scored the visitors' last run. The locals' two last runs came in the ninth. Minehan led off with a two bagger and scored on McGinley's single. George Wilbur hit a long high fly that the center fielder dropped and reached second but McGinley was caught at third. Birmingham hit to Klopff and George Wilbur started for third. Klopff fielded the ball cleanly and Wilbur was between him and the third. Here he gave as fine an exhibition of base running as was ever seen on any grounds. The entire nine gathered around him and he dodged them for what seemed like five minutes and finally made a lightning dash and landed safely at third, scoring a minute later on Birmingham's single.

Gray Irish Frieze Ulsters.

Leo Mayer, proprietor of the Bee Hive, returned from Chicago yesterday, where he was buying clothing. While there, he bought a lot of gray Irish Frieze Ulsters, which he will retail for $6.50 each. This is the same price as some merchants in Janesville pay wholesale for the same goods.

LICENSE ELECTION COMES TOMORROW

POLLS OPEN FROM 6 A. M. TO 7 P. M.

Rev. Father Roche Urges His Congregation to Vote For the $500 Fee—Advocates of Low License Will Have Teams at the Polls All Day.

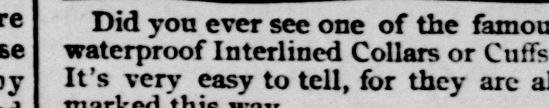

Janesville pastors made little reference to the license election in their Sunday sermons. Rev. Father Roche was the one exception. He handled the subject without gloves, using the strongest terms to express his disapprobation of the liquor traffic. He declared that liquor dealers were falling more and more under the ban. An indication of this was given by the fact that Free Masons had long since refused to admit saloon-keepers and that Knights of Pythias were drawing their lines closer with each year. Father Roche urged his congregation to vote for high license. His sermon was almost the only effort made by the advocates of greater restriction. There has been little or no agitation of the question except by those engaged in the saloon business, they being quietly at work to secure a full vote on their side. They will have carriages at each polling place.

The question involved tomorrow will not be one of "license" or "no license," but one fixing the amount to be paid. Every voter in the city should take interest enough in the matter to cast his vote on this question. A full vote, no matter which side prevails, is more decisive and the influence of such a vote is always broader. The cost of the special election is estimated at $500.

SILK BODICES.

They Are Still Popular and Bid Fair to Be So For a Long Time.

Waists of separate material still hold their place, and there are modifications that show a tendency toward making skirts to them. Before the year closes we will see long basques of fancy material worn with plain skirts. An advanced style sent out as a sort of feeler in the fashionable world shows a fitted basque of brocade with a skirt about 10 inches deep. This is smooth at the front and sides and slightly full in the back, not nearly as much so, however, as some of the blazer skirts have been. The fronts are cut away from the waist line and filled in with plain material, forming a vest with small pockets. There are very wide revers of the brocade edged with the plain goods. The whole is piped with satin, velvet or with a fancy silk cord.

The round silk bodice is as great a favorite as ever and will probably continue to be in fashion for some time to come, as it is a convenient garment in every respect. In a dark color, simply made, it may be used for street and general wear, while in a light tint, with the addition of a little lace and ribbon, it is suitable for the theater. Now that contrasting sleeves are admissible the best parts of an old silk gown may be made over into a bodice, more being employed for sleeves and collar or revers. A black silk bodice is extremely useful, as it may be worn with any skirt and on any occasion and does not easily become defaced. Narrow ruffles or plaits will serve to keep it from looking too somber, and a broad collar of white or ecru lace, such as is now in vogue, will smarten it for particular occasions.

The sketch shows a full round bodice of straw colored silk trimmed with vandykes of Irish gaulpore, which form a collar and corselet. The full elbow sleeves are gathered into gaulpore cuffs.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VARIOUS FANCIES.

The French Say There Are Several Ages and Kinds of Beauty.

For full dress occasions low cut slippers, with the Louis Quinze heel, embroidered with pearls or ornamented simply with a buckle, are preferred at present.

A great deal has been said about black hosiery going out of fashion, but it seems to hold its own yet and is still considered the correct style unless the hosiery matches the gown in color.

The French say there are several "ages" as well as kinds of beauty—the beauty of mere youthfulness, which they call "la beauté du diable;" also a beauty of "ugliness," of "old age," and of "thinness," called "la beauté du singe." Frederika Bremer, the Swedish novelist, had the beauty of "plainness." She was so very plain of face that her expression of trustfulness, as though appealing to you to find some other qualities in her than mere "looks," shone out with a perfect radiance that ennobled her face and drew friends to her, because she had no other beauty. But Miss Bremer took pleasure in her well kept hands, of which she used to say, "Even hands have their moments of charm."

Frenchwomen have a fancy for serving bread in baskets, and one of the latest bits of fancy work is a fitted cover for the bread basket made of heavy white cotton or linen, embroidered with red or blue working cotton. The cover is fastened under the bottom of the basket, so it may be removed and washed.

A very pretty walking gown for early autumn is shown in the accompanying sketch. The upper skirt, figaro, belt and sleeves, are of blue and white checked wool, while the lower skirt, blouse and revers are of blue moire to match. Moire folds and gold buttons trim the costume.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

Grease Spots.

Here is one woman's way of removing rosin, tar or axle grease from clothing. She says that she never found a stain so obstreperous that it would not yield to her efforts, though the fabric will be apt to fade if it is at all high colored. It works to a charm on white goods: Apply any kind of grease to the stain and then soap it well with good washing soap and let it stand awhile. Then drench it well with turpentine and wash with warm water. It may take several applications.

Unrecognized Dainties.

The smallest bird now eaten in England is the wheatear, an exquisite little white fleshed bird like a miniature partridge in flavor. The smallest quadruped that was once a dainty, but is only remembered in Roman tradition, is the dormouse. There are those who have tried the bat and found it tastes like a house mouse, only mousier.—London Spectator.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1575—Hans Bullinger, Swiss reformer, died at Zurich. 1743—Jean Antoine, marquis de Condorcet, mathematician and friend of Benjamin Franklin, was born in Picardy; died by poison, self administered, while imprisoned by Robespierre, 1794. 1826—Lucius Quintus Cincinnatus Lamar, statesman and jurist, was born in Putnam county, Ga.; died 1892. 1851—Dr. John Kidd, English writer on mineralogy and medicine, died at Oxford. 1862—Battle of Antietam. 1864—Walter Savage Landor, scholar and poet, died at Florence; born 1775. 1871—Mont Cenis tunnel opened.

AS TO BOARDING TRAMPS.

What a time the democrats are having in trying to make a boom for their candidate for sheriff. They make the claim that Mr. Hogan four years ago saved the county fabulous sums of money. If they will pause to reflect they will admit that it was J. L. Bear who paved the way for a reduction in expense. Bear at that time did not have the opportunity to carry out the idea—Hogan did, but established a precedent in governing the jail by which he found it possible for a sheriff to make more clean money at $2,500 a year than under the fee system. The democratic economists should explain who gave the sheriff authority to discharge prisoners before sentences expired. They should tell how many prisoners, sentenced by the board to serve time in the county jail, were immediately discharged by Hogan, he claiming that the county was better off with the vagrants outside of the county jail than inside. How much of the profit came from these discharges? The bid of four cents apiece for votes is not the only thing to be considered in this campaign.

HALF BROWN.

Curious Markings on the Body of a Little White Boy.

The colored woman who is turning white in places has a rival in a little white boy who was born brown in places. The color of his brown places is about the same as that of the skin of the average Afro-American. The little boy, George Russell by name, is the son of a baker in New York. He was born in Omaha two years ago. He is fair-haired and his skin is light, aside from the patches. He is plump and healthy. The boy is mostly white as far down as the waist line, below which he is brown, with the exception of the left leg below the knee. The white portion, including the face, arms and body, is dotted with large patches of varying intensity of color. On the left temple is a very large red birthmark. This is the only approach to deformity in the child. Otherwise he is very well formed. There are fifteen spots on the face, nearly as many more on the scalp, and more are scattered over the shoulders, arms and body. The left leg below the knee is liberally spotted with color down to the foot and on the toes.

Was, Not Is.

In London, in the time of George the Fourth, there was an athletic and dashing military man, Major Bracebridge by name and title, who, when he found his power waning, retired to his countryhouse and seldom showed himself in society. Many years later, he had occasion to go up to London, and there met a lady who had known him in his younger years. "Dear me!" she exclaimed; "aren't you Major Bracebridge?" "No, madam," he answered, "but I was once."

The Dialect of the Yakuts.

An interesting piece of translation is that of the Russian liturgy into the dialect of the Yakuts of Northeastern Siberia, which has just been accomplished by some Russian scholars. The language of the Yakuts is so poor that it can only reckon a total of 200 root words. They have no word for "body" as distinguished from "flesh," and none for "bread." The Lord's prayer, even, could not be translated literally.

BEYOND THE RIVER OF DEATH

J. B. Rowley.

J. B. Rowley died in Denver, Colorado, Friday morning. The remains will be brought to Janesville for interment. Mr. Rowley formerly lived in this city. About fifteen years ago he removed to Omaha, being a very successful fire insurance adjuster. His health being poor he went to Denver in hopes of benefiting his health, but was soon stricken with paralysis, from which he died. He has a son in Omaha and a sister in Baraboo. The remains will probably reach Janesville this evening or some time tomorrow, nobody having received definite information.

Funeral of Mrs. J. P. Dickson

Six pioneer residents of Janesville were the pall bearers at the funeral of Mrs. J. P. Dickson, Sunday afternoon, they being Volney Atwood, E. H. Bennett, O. K. Bennett, J. M. Bostwick, W. T. Vankirk and William Ruger. Services were held at the home on South Main street at 3 o'clock, Rev. S. P. Wilder officiating, assisted in the song service by the Congregational choir. The remains were buried in Oak Hill cemetery beside those of her husband.

Mrs. Charles H. Norton.

Mrs. Charles H. Norton, remembered by many Janesville friends as Miss Sarah Trumble, died in Omaha Saturday. She leaves a husband and one daughter. The funeral will be in this city, the remains being taken directly from the train. Mrs. Norton was an aunt of Mrs. W. P. Sayles and it was in her home that Mr. and Mrs. Sayles were married.

Funeral of Thomas Welch.

Father Collins conducted the funeral services of Thomas Welch at St. Patrick's church this morning at 10 o'clock, after which the remains were taken to Mount Olivet for burial, there being a large attendance at the funeral. The pall bearers were John O'Leary, Peter Skelly, Patrick Finley, Hugh Canny, Patrick Butler, William Ford.

A MIRROR VISION.

The hostess, an elegantly dressed lady of 49, with abundant white hair puffed above eyes still black and bright with a fire that must once have kindled a flame in many a heart, caught the ball of conversation as it came her way.

"In my youth we never heard of this thing you call mental telegraph, theosophy and the like, but every now and then there took place, as now, occurrences which puzzled the thoughtful, though they had no name to give the phenomena. But, like most young girls, I was skeptical of all that was not directly natural when I thought of it at all, which was not often, until I had the experience I am going to tell you of, which was so strange that it upset me for some weeks, which agitation came not so much from the real shock and fright that I suffered as from the mysterious circumstances that attended it.

"My own home was a country place some 15 miles from a large city, where I had several families of relatives whom I visited once or twice a year or whenever there was to be given any ball or opera or festivity of sufficient importance for me to desire to attend it. I was just 17 when a royal personage from Europe came across the pond to get a peep at the Yankees, and though democratic to the point of being rabid every manly head was uncovered in the country, every manly throat ached with cheering this personage, and every feminine heart beat high with the hope of having the royal eye rest for a moment upon the new gown which was to be had at all hazards if the family dined on potatoes alone for a year to come.

"There were to be a series of entertainments given in honor of his highness, and I, like all the rest of the world, must attend in all the finery my father's ample means allowed me. From my mother's side of the family I had inherited some very fine diamonds, amounting in value to over $10,000, and even a great deal more in those days, when these gems were not so common, and on this occasion I teased my father to let me wear them.

"I had no mother to tell me that such rich jewelry was not in the best of taste on one so young and an unmarried woman, so when I started for the city I carried the diamonds with me. But my maid was an elderly woman, who had also been my nurse since my motherless babyhood, and the jewels were in her care. Unfortunately, however, Marian fell ill the day after I left home, and being confined to her bed I was dependent on my aunt's maid for services in my dressing, etc. In order to lighten this woman's duties, which were heavy, as my cousins also frequently required her aid as hairdresser and seamstress, I looked after my clothes and waited on myself as much as possible, performing such acts of my toilet as I could.

"It thus happened that one night, after returning from a reception at the house of a foreign consul, I disrobed myself of my trained evening dress, and slipping on a loose sack sat down to brush my hair before retiring. My seat was just in front of a large glass above my dresser, or what was then called a 'bureau,' on which I had placed the jewelry I had worn—the diamonds I have spoken of.

"As I plied the brush my eyes naturally fell on this mirror, which reflected the room behind me, and as I continued to look I saw evolving itself apparently from empty air the figure of a man. He was well dressed, even stylishly, and was after a fashion handsome, but deathly pale, and his eyes glittered feverishly.

"He crept nearer and nearer to me, seeming to look only at the diamonds loosely strewn upon the marble before me, but his right hand was thrust into his breast, and as he stood over me he suddenly jerked it out and raised high above me a small Spanish dagger, the hilt of which was of a dead gold, or Etruscan gold, as it is called. This was set with rubies, which I noticed with that peculiar attention to trifles so often displayed in moments of danger. Up to this point I had been too terrified to call out or even to move, not even turning my head to look around me, but watching the movements of the assassin as they were reflected in the mirror. But as he brought down his hand with a swift, murderous motion to strike me from my chair with a single blow the spell that had held me snapped, and I sprang to my feet with a shriek of terror and rushed to the door.

"Even as I ran I wondered at not encountering the man, but though I could not remember afterward seeing him at all I did not stay, but unlocking the door flung it open, still screaming as fast as the sounds could issue from my lips. It happened that two of my young men cousins had lingered later than the rest of the family at the entertainment referred to, and having just come in were coming up the main staircase close to my room. Rushing to these, I threw myself into the arms of the nearest, Christopher, shrieking, 'The man, the man!'

"The two young men hurried to my room and looked about, but could see no one. The windows were all fastened, and as I had myself just come out of the single door to the apartment, and from which no one else could have slipped without our seeing him, the only chance was for the burglar to have concealed himself in the room.

"By this time the rest of the household was aroused, and not only my room, but the entire place, was thoroughly searched. The three windows of the room were provided with heavy old fashioned shutters, two of them opening over 40 feet, while the other had not been unclosed for years, for it looked almost into one in the next house, which was also seen to be tightly secured. The house itself was occupied by a respectable family in straitened circumstances. It therefore seemed an impossibility for a man to have entered the room unseen by me and to have made his escape in the few seconds it took my cousins to reach the spot where I had fallen asleep. So it was thought that I had fallen asleep in my chair, and my vision had been the result of my late supper of minced chicken and champagne, and though I was still shivering from my fright I allowed myself to be almost persuaded that this was the real truth.

"By the next night I had so thoroughly been laughed into believing this that I took my seat before the mirror and began brushing my hair as nonchalantly as at first, when to my utter horror I saw that figure form itself from nothing, absolutely nothing, and again advance upon me with that menacing attitude. Again it raised its hands to strike, the terrible eyes seemed to glare into mine, fixed on them in the mirror, and, as before, released from the horror that held me stricken into marble, I leaped to my feet and ran screaming into the corridor without. I glanced back into the room, but there was no one visible there, but I was not to be convinced this time that an overheated imagination was to blame. I fled to my aunt's door, and as she opened it fell fainting in her arms. I was not to be stirred from my belief that my life had been threatened in that dreadful room by all the searching and arguments that were made and announced my intention of returning home in the morning.

"But the next night was to be that of the grand ball given in honor of the prince, and that, with the fact that I had the prettiest gown in the city to wear, finally prevailed on me to alter my mind, though I made it a condition that Marian, my maid, was to occupy a little antechamber opening into mine, and that my stalwart cousin, Christopher, who was afterward my loved husband for nearly 40 years, was to sleep on a cot in the hall just outside my door. So with a contented mind I went to the ball, returning late to find my good maid asleep, and as she was still not well I crept quietly in and proceeded to undress.

"I let down my hair, and, though too fatigued, as usual, to brush it, sat for some moments looking at myself in the glass—I was a little vain in those days—when all at once I saw behind me the man with his knife in his hand.

"But this time he did not evolve from air, but was there, real flesh and blood, his hot breath nearly scorching the back of my neck. I leaped to my feet with a scream, and as I did so he struck at me, but the blade glanced aside, wounding me only slightly in the shoulder. I screamed aloud, and he feiled me with a blow just as Marian and Christopher came rushing in. Seeing them, the robber and assassin sprang for the open window and would have escaped by leaping—an easy feat for a muscular man—in the window of the house next door, which was also open and only about three feet distant. This had evidently been the way by which he had entered and which he used as an egress. But Christopher caught him and dragged him back, and after a struggle secured him, aided by his brothers, who had been summoned by Marian, so when I opened my eyes from my swoon it was to see the would be murderer lying bound, while near me lay a small dagger, with a handle of Etruscan gold, studded with flawed rubies.

"But here is the strange part of the story: On the night of his capture he had entered my room for the first time, though on the two previous nights he had watched me through the shutters of the two windows. He was the son of the family residing next door, and from the love of dress and pleasure beyond his means had involved himself hopelessly in debt, and seeing my diamonds had conceived the idea of killing or at least silencing me and stealing them to pay his debts. But though his mind had dwelt persistently on the scheme he had lacked courage to carry it out until the night of the ball, when, pressed by an importunate creditor, he had led himself into the room, where he had concealed himself until my arrival, not knowing of the protectors I had been warned to have near me."—Philadelphia Times.

Gambling in Calcutta.

Gambling on the next rain and its duration has become so great a vice in Calcutta that the government has been called on to suppress it. Clerks on the way to their offices stop at commission houses to place bets, and the women have been seized with the mania, so that they do not only pawn their own and borrowed jewels, but go further to procure money to gamble with. The bookmakers risk no money of their own and charge a small commission for handling the bets. —Pittsburgh Dispatch.

CURES OTHERS

Mrs. MANTHA JANE PRINGLE, of Chase, Jackson Co., W. Va., writes: "Having been a great sufferer for many years with nearly every disease my sex is heir to, I can now say I am well and hearty. Have done more hard work in the past year, and with more ease, than I have done for twelve years. Before consulting you I was the most wretched of women, unable to walk or sit up in bed, and now I owe my good health all to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets.' I gained twelve pounds while using the first bottle of 'Prescription.' I send you my picture together with my most heartfelt thanks. To any one suffering as I did who wants to know the particulars of my case and who will send a stamped envelope with name and address on, I will write particulars."

WHY NOT YOU?

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. BRIEF BITS OF HUMOR.

Natural Depravity.

Mrs. Peterby, of Austin, Tex., is a kind mother and a faithful wife, but in some respects she is not as bright as she might be. The conversation was about counterfeiters.

"There is one very strange thing about these counterfeiters," said Mrs. Peterby.

"What is that?"

"They are always arrested for counterfeiting dollars. I have never heard of one making good dollars. They seem to be naturally depraved."—Alex Sweet, in Texas Siftings.

The Labor Problem.

"Are you going to strike, ma?" asked the little boy, as he tremblingly gazed upon the uplifted shingle.

"That's just what I am going to do?"

"Can't we arbitrate, ma, before you strike?"

"I'm just going to arbitrate," she said, as the shingle descended and raised a cloud of dust from the seat of a pair of pantaloons. "I am just going to arbitrate, my son, and this shingle is the board of arbitration."—Tammany Times.

Not in the Swim.

Mrs. Suddenrich—I never heard of such a way of talkin' as you've got into at boardin' school.

Daughter—I've learned to speak as the teachers do.

Mrs. Suddenrich—Well, jus' drop it. Them poverty-stricken hirelings don't move in our set.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Purpose in View.

"I wish you would tell Bloomfield a startling story," said Gaswell to Dukane.

"Why?"

"He has been eating onions, and I would like you to tell him something which would fairly take his breath away."—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

From the German.

Instructor—What does the soldier do when he dies?

Soldier—I don't know.

Instructor—Don't you know, you donkey, that when the soldier dies he simultaneously severs his connection with the army?

Her Object.

Ramblor—That Bartlett girl thinks a great deal of me. When I told her I was going around the world she asked me to be sure and write her from every place I visited.

Walter—Yes; she is collecting postage stamps.—N. Y. Sun.

Getting Back to Earth.

"Well," remarked old Mrs. Peppers, "I guess Mary's honeymoon is over."

"They haven't quarrelled, have they?" asked Mr. Peppers.

"Oh, no; but she has written home for her old clothes."—Indianapolis Journal.

No Kick Needed.

"Why don't you get a boy to keep your desk in order?" inquired the caller. "It looks awfully littered up."

"I keep it this way," said the man at the desk, "to show that I'm always busy."

"But why—Oh, I see! Good day!"—Chicago Tribune.

In Chicago.

"Who was that tall blonde you were talking with last evening?"

"My wife."

"But I saw you with a little brunette not so long ago, and you told me she was your wife."

"Oh, that was away last week."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Possibly She Hadn't Had the Chance.

Maude (with pride)—Nobody ever heard of me jilting a man.

Claribel (with the best intentions in the world)—Oh, one only needs to look at you to feel sure of that.—Chicago Record.

PROPER CAUTION.

His Wife—But, Henry, why do you wish to burn your love letters? Didn't you mean what you said in them?

Her Husband—Well, yes. But I've just made my will, and I don't want any lawyer to use them as proof of my insanity when I'm dead and gone.—N. Y. Herald.

Entitled to His Opinion.

She—She thinks she's pretty. He—Well, why shouldn't she? They say she's worth half a million.—Town Topics.

She Certainly Would.

"We can't break these dinner sets, madam, but if you buy the complete set probably the cook will do the rest."—Tammany Times.

An Important Item.

"Here's a new book, by a bank official, on 'How to Get Rich Easily.'"

"Does he tell how to keep out of jail afterwards?"—Brooklyn Life.

In Harmony.

Jess—What was the subject of Dr. Thirdly's wedding oration?

Bess—"Behold how great a matter a little spark kindleth."—N. Y. World.

The Summer Girl.

He held her unresisting hand. A ring he wished to place there: He gave it up, you understand: There wasn't any space there.

MISCELLANEOUS SQUIBS.

"How did you enjoy the opera last night?" Blinks—It was splendid, every bit of it, except the singin'.

"Why did Miss Antique leave the hotel?" "She was insulted. Somebody asked her if Noah was a pretty baby."

Aunt—"Well, Willie, what did you like best about school?" "Willie—Not havin' to stay home an' run errands."

He—Do you usually take a stick with you when you go climbing on the mountains? She—Oh, yes; would you like to go along to-day?

"What is your next novel going to be, Timmins?" "It will treat of the influence of tight shoes on women's moral and spiritual nature."

Copy-Reader—Here's a story about a negro dying of delirium tremens. How'll I head it? City Editor—"The Last Daze of Pompey," and let it go at that!

"You are nothing but a big bluff," remarked the river to the bank. "Is that so?" retorted the bank. "If I take a notion to come down on you, your name will be mud."

Harry—Do you believe in the old superstition that May is an unlucky month for marriages? Uncle Dick—Yes, decidedly; but why do you speak of May any more than any other month?

"Now," said she, after she had concluded a vigorous spanking for wilfulness, "I hope you have changed your mind." "No, mamma," he sobbed, "I always said I'd rather be spanked by you than kissed by any other lady in town, and I think so yet."

"Yes," said the proprietor of the barber shop, "he was a very good barber, but we had to let him go. He didn't understand the business."

"What did he do?" "He forgot to say to a bald-headed customer that his hair needed trimming to-day."

"I never saw any signs of such meanness in Hobbes." "You don't know him. Why, he gave his wife a life insurance policy executed in her favor as a Christmas present last year and ever since then he has been practicing a regimen conducive to longevity."

DESULTORY READING.

Early New Zealand spades have been found tipped with jade or other stone, to give a good digging point.

Mrs. Emily Sparks of Thomas station, Pa., well up in years and demented, set fire to a strawstack, and throwing herself in the flames, was burned to death.

In Indiana there are 432 children in the poor houses and 1,259 in the orphan asylum. In thirty-four counties last year the dependent children cost $105,000. The total cost in all the counties was about $150,000.

The invention of bells is attributed by some of the best foreign campanologists to the Egyptians, who are credited with having made use of such percussion instruments to announce the sacred fetes of Osiris.

The history and records of the trial of Dr. Robert W. Buchanan for poisoning his wife take up 2,600 pages, each page being 11 inches long by 8 inches wide. It is said to be the largest book on criminal history in the world.

Dr. J. S. Haldane of London has an invention which, he claims, will enable miners to live from one to three hours in "after damp." The invention consists of a steel case holding compressed oxygen and a respirator, the whole being no larger than a safety lamp.

When the hard times were at their hardest a firm of negro bootblacks in Brooklyn announced straw hat cleaning by electricity, and after that there was a crowd much of the time waiting round the basement of the firm to see their hats whirled round and cleaned by machinery, gummed, smoothed and returned seemingly as good as new.

"I OWE MY LIFE TO YOU."

A Wilton, N. J., Girl's Experience With a Noted Massachusetts Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Life is never more precious than in the heyday of youth, when every dream is a promise, and every thought an inspiration.

It is natural that Miss Gertrude Sicker, a young lady who lives at Wilton, N. J., is grateful for the great boon of life.

She suffered terribly with suppressed and painful menstruations. The doctors could only prevent her from having fits each month by dosing her with morphine.

At last, when she was completely prostrated, her father got her a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which at once gave her relief.

That did what the doctors could not do. It cured her. She has no trouble now, and no dread of the coming month. "I owe my life to you," she writes to Mrs. Pinkham. "Oh, if other suffering women could try your valuable medicine they would bless you as I do."

AN ORDINANCE for the protection of electric lights.

The mayor and common council of the city of Janesville, do ordain as follows:

SECTION 1. No person, unless duly authorized, shall extinguish or in any way interfere with the light of any electric street lamp in said city; or shall any person in any way break, injure or interfere or tamper with any such lamp, or any wire, fixture or apparatus appurtenant thereto.

SECTION 2. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this ordinance shall pay a penalty of not more than fifty dollars or less than ten dollars.

SECTION 3. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication, which publication shall be for three successive days. Approved.

JOHN THOROUGHGOOD, Mayor.

FOR SALE.

A model farm of 300 acres 60 miles west of Quincy, Ill., in the Great Blue Grass Region of Northern Missouri, lying three miles from the Hannibal & St. Joe and Santa Fe railways. On this farm are $11,000 in new buildings, fine barns and sheds for stock, the house cost $5,000 four years ago. Missouri is one of the best farming states, and here the soil, timber, grasses, water, fruit, climate and natural advantages are not excelled anywhere in the union. Dr. St. John resides in northern Missouri; Dr. Loomis just traveled through it and says the country and crops are fine. Will sell for what the land is worth and throw in the buildings, and take a small farm in Wisconsin as part pay. This is a bargain some man must have.

BORT, BAILEY & COMPANY.

ALSO 50 NEW FUR GARMENTS JUST OPENED.

You Will Say So When You See Them.

With a determination born of energy and push, backed by nerve and enterprise that absolutely knows no fail, we are going to make this fall's business double any previous seasons. The enormous purchases made are the most successful of our whole career and we offer you the

it has ever been our lot to show. We extend a pressing invitation to all visitors to come and see through our BIG STORE.

Some of those little fellows have the nerve to advertise Boys' and Children's clothing. Why, our boys' and children's department alone is larger than their entire store. We have the finest, largest and most complete stock of BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S FALL AND WINTER CLOTHING ever brought to this city. All past efforts outdone. The only exclusive boys and children's department in the city.

Special attention is called to this OVERCOAT. It is THE POOLE. As you will see it is a very neat coat, the best quality of goods and workmanship. We fully guarantee this coat to be equal to any merchant tailor garment made in the city. It will fit just as well and cost you 25 per cent less. It won't hurt you to look.

Here is another, THE PADDOCK. Isn't it nice? A coat that the best merchant tailor would feel proud of. We are proud of them, and well we may be as they are models of perfection and cost no more than an inferior garment in one of the smaller stores. Come to us when you want an overcoat or ulster.

It seems almost exaggeration when we make the claims we do for these coats, especially this one, THE CHESTERFIELD and no doubt the high-priced merchant tailor will say we are not speaking the truth. But we defy them to produce any better garment in any respect, especially fit, for less than 25 per cent more.

We have spent a good deal of time and money to lay before the people of Janesville and vicinity, a line of suits and overcoats that will eclipse anything on earth, and we have succeeded. Our PICK-WICK SUITS for men; COMBINATION SUITS for boys' and children and THE POOLE, PADDOCK and CHESTERFIELD Overcoats fill the bill.
